Description

Extensive town house with business possibilities, for sale in Alcalalí. This extra large, traditional townhouse is possibly the largest town house in the medieval, Spanish pueblo of Alcalalí. It has a build of 748m² and is distributed over 3 floors. The property has, in recent years, had an comprehensive reform, including concrete beams to the roof. It remains, for the buyer with vision, to complete the renovation to suit a multitude of possibilities. This exciting prospect boasts some exceptional, original features, which could be retained to give this house a stunning interior design. The property has a terrace which is a valuable feature, not least of all, because it allows natural light into the interior. Furthermore, to the rear of the house, there is a piece of land, currently blocked off, which could be integrated to the property as great outdoor space with lovely views. The potential with this fabulous townhouse, is endless. It could be an expansive family home, a house with separated accommodation for extended family, or to produce rental income, an exclusive, boutique hotel, even a care home. There is also the possibility to extend even further. The townhouse next door is also for sale. With a further 5 bedrooms, this increases the size of the property to make a very interesting prospect. These two townhouses were historically, one vast residence, and they could easily be converted back to the original build.
